Cambridge College Chesapeake Offers New Programs

Cambridge College Chesapeake Regional Center is pleased to announce the addition of several new academic programs for 2011. The following new programs are available this summer: Master of Education in Psychological Studies, Master of Education as an Autism Specialist, Master of Education in Autism/Behavior Analyst, Master of Education in English as a Second Language, and a graduate certificate - Student Success Specialist. Beginning this Fall 2011, Chesapeake will also offer the Master of Education in Early Education and Child Care.

“Cambridge College has been a champion in inclusion, and these programs will provide in-demand training for educators and others who work professionally in these fields,” says Dr. Joseph Daisy, Executive Vice President at Cambridge College.

These new programs are designed to help meet the needs of local organizations and schools, educators and other professionals who serve our communities and children in Virginia and North Carolina.

Interested educators can now call the Chesapeake Regional Center at 757-424-0333 for more information.
