

Message from Tito Guerrero III, President of Cambridge College

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

This has been an exciting and eventful year of transformation and expansion for our College. We continue to create and implement innovative new programs and courses of study in response to the needs of the community. Our renewed, refreshed, reorganized faculty, administration and staff continue to work together. Please join us in celebrating another year of miracles and the power of the Cambridge College experience to transform the lives of working adults.

At Cambridge College our emphasis on diversity and multiculturalism is reflected, not only in our student body, but our faculty, administration and staff. In this atmosphere, our students discover that their life experiences and cultural backgrounds, which may have seemed impediments to higher education, are in fact the cornerstones of their academic and professional success. They also learn how a Cambridge College education draws upon the deep connections that exist between adult learners and their communities.

I am delighted to lead Cambridge College into the future in this important mission of providing academically excellent, time-efficient, cost-effective higher education to those for whom that opportunity may have been limited or denied.

Warm regards
Dr. Tito Guerrero III

Cambridge College has been named one of the America's Top 100 Graduate Degree Producers by Diverse Issues in Higher Education magazine. The College ranked 13th and 58th in conferring the most master's degrees in the academic year 2007-2008 to African American and Hispanic students respectively. "Cambridge College is proud of its commitment to serving the needs of students of color for whom higher education opportunities have been traditionally limited or denied and we are honored to be named one of America's Top 100 Graduate Degree Producers," said Joe A. Lee, Ph.D., Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Cambridge College.

The Cambridge College Communication department has teamed up with the Information Technology department to create an outlet for College related videos. The Channel is called Cambridge College TV. This YouTube online video channel was first setup in March of this year by Wendell Seale and Saul Horowitz. The idea was to create one central location for all the videos produced for the College. The TV channel has over 50 videos ranging from tutorials on how to setup your Google Email, to videos promoting the College. The Channel address is <http://www.youtube.com/user/CambridgeCollegeTV>

News From Around The College

Cambridge College Family Outing

Under the leadership of President Dr. Tito Guerrero and Provost Dr. Joe A.

Lee, the College Senate's Quality of Worklife Standing Committee sponsored the Cambridge College Family Outing on September 17, 2009, and it was a huge success.

Many members of the College community from Cambridge and Lawrence, Massachusetts, and their family members attended. The afternoon was filled with delicious food, fun and games (musical chairs was a big hit!) for adults and children. The Committee is appreciative of President Guerrero for his efforts and support in making this event possible. With the President's demonstrated commitment to family, we are looking forward to many more College community gatherings.

2009 Annual Assembly

With over 75 employees in attendance, 12 via telephone conference, and five Regional Centers attending by WebEx, the 2009 Annual Assembly was vibrant and illuminating.

College Senate Co-Chairs Dr.

Joe A. Lee and Ms. Ludmilla Lewis hosted the event held on October 29th. Annual reports were presented by the College Senate's Standing Committees, including Policy, Planning and Budget; Marketing, Student Services, and Retention; Academic Excellence and Leadership; Quality of Worklife; and Academic Technology. The highlight of the Annual Assembly was the State of the College Address by President Tito Guerrero. In addition to announcing that he would give employees a 3-1/2 day break during the holiday season, he provided data on the College's distinction in serving students of color and the military.

The College Senate wants to acknowledge and express appreciation for the generous donation of delicious refreshments by Whole Foods (115 Prospect Street, Cambridge, MA 02139).

Book Award

"Quickly: The Magic Spatula," written by Jeryl Abelmann and Miriam Kronish and illustrated by Chason Matthams, won a Moonbeam Spirit Award on October 10, 2009 at the ninth annual West Virginia Book Festival in Charleston, West Virginia."

This year's Moonbeam award winners confirm that books can change children's lives," said Moonbeam Awards founder Jerrold Jenkins." They've already had a big impact on the judges and the kids that read them, so we know these books were created to enrich children's lives."

"I am thrilled that the Moonbeam shines on our universal story and strikes a responsive chord," said Kronish. Abelmann co-wrote "Quickly" with Miriam Kronish, her longtime friend and mentor, a former principal in the Needham, Mass., public schools and currently a teacher at Lesley University and Cambridge College in Massachusetts.

Excellence Award

Prof. Troy Smith, a resident of Hyde

Park, Ma this Spring received the 2009 National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development (NISOD) Teaching Excellence Award at the International Educational Conference, held in Austin, Texas.

Smith has served as a professor of human services at North Shore Community College since 1992. As a curriculum consultant for the college's youth worker initiative, Smith was involved in creating a certificate program for students pursuing careers in youth development and leadership. Prof. Smith is also a senior instructor at Cambridge College.

Online Library News

Cambridge College Online Library was featured as an "Online Library Success Story" in an interview with Project Manager for Library Services Maida Tilchen in the The Kovacs Guide to Electronic Library Collection Development:

Essential Core Subject Collections, Selection Criteria, and Guidelines, Second Edition (2009) by Diane K. Kovacs, published by Neal-Schuman. In the interview, the scope of the online library, and the use of the online library resources and services are described.

Congratulations to Professor John N. Papadonis, Cambridge College Coordinator for Science Education, Graduate School of Education on recently being selected as a new member of The Massachusetts Hall of Fame for Science Educators.

“My mission at Cambridge College is to assist in the training of new science teachers entering the Massachusetts Public School workforce, which played an important role in the selection committee’s decision.”

The induction ceremony will take place on November 19, 2009 at Bridgewater State College.

A remembrance service was held for the late Dr. Paul Gerson, Faculty member of the School of Psychology and Counseling. The service was held on October 7, 2009 in room 152 at 1000 Massachusetts Avenue.

Dr. Paul Gerson served as Lecturer and Program Coordinator of the Certificate of Advanced Graduate Studies and Practicum/Internship Programs in the School of Psychology and Counseling at Cambridge College for eight years. He received a Ph.D. in 1971 from the University of Pittsburgh and was an intern at Worcester State Hospital.

He particularly enjoyed working with clients who were “stuck” in treatment. Dr. Gerson was also a well respected trainer and speaker. And, he told great jokes and stories!

Dr. Gerson is survived by his wife, Lani Campbell, and his two daughters, Kyree Gerson and Sienna Gerson.

The Clothesline Project

Once again, the undergraduate department will sponsor The Clothesline Project, an exhibit of tee shirts decorated with messages of hope and despair by survivors of domestic abuse.

The exhibit will be displayed in the third floor student lounge at the 1000 Massachusetts Avenue campus on Wednesday, November 18th and Thursday, November 19th, from 3-9 p.m. We hope that the entire Cambridge College community will find time to view the exhibit.

There will be a simultaneous viewing of the film, defending our Lives. Information regarding the problem of Domestic Violence and available resources will be available.

For more information, please contact Prof. Carol Pepi or Jessie Bartlett.

School Nurses

School nurse, Linda King, who attended the NITE Program this past summer at Emmanuel College in Boston is currently working to finish up her ILP in the M.Ed. in School Nurse Education Program. She will soon be attending the fall meeting of the Vermont School Nurses Association to receive a very prestigious award.

Linda has been recognized and selected by her Vermont colleagues to be awarded Vermont School Nurse of the Year from that state. We all extend our sincere congratulations to Linda and will be basking in her reflective light. She is, indeed, someone who exemplifies the qualities of intelligent compassion that we are pleased have been recognized and acknowledged by her peers, as they were by her fellow students when Linda attended the NITE Program this past Summer. We are so proud to be able to have a person of Linda's caliber represent our profession.

Increased International Students

We have 68 incoming international students from 24 different countries. There has been a 50% increase of international students this year compared to fall 2008. Most of our incoming students are from Turkey (20), Nepal (8), and Thailand (8). The International Student Office is very excited to have such a diverse student body and looks forward to serving it.

In Memory of Allison

Cambridge College Undergraduate student, Cheryl A. Williams, was the central speaker at the dedication of a memorial for her daughter Allison on September 2, 2009. Cheryl asked the participants gathered at a park in Everett to allow the tragedy of her daughter's death in 2006 to educate and mobilize the community to the struggles facing young people.

Cheryl was praised by Everett Mayor Carlo DeMaria, Jr. for her tenacity and commitment to the needs of youth. He spoke of his first meeting with Cheryl who left his office "with both of us in tears." In dedicating the granite plaque and a new park tree to Allison's memory, Mayor DeMaria recommitted his office to increased educational and support services for youth and their families.

Cambridge College faculty member, Prof. Carol Pepi, was also an invited speaker. She called upon the participants to remember that 'all children are our children' and we must share the responsibility of parenting them.

New Undergraduate Coordinators

Undergraduate Dean, James Lee, has announced two new interim Program Coordinators. Professor Bruce Cohen has agreed to serve as interim Coordinator of the Undergraduate Management Studies program. Bruce brings a strong management background both in practice and within the classroom, and has been a highly valued member of both the graduate and undergraduate teaching teams at Cambridge College.

Dr. Joel Ziff is serving as interim Coordinator of the Undergraduate Psychology Program while Professor Michael Siegell is on sabbatical. Joel has been an active and respected member of both the graduate and undergraduate teaching teams at Cambridge College.

The Honorable Leslie E. Harris

THE UNDERGRADUATE DEPARTMENT LAUNCHES TWO NEW PROGRAMS

The Fall term served as the launch pad for two new academic programs, Applied Sciences and Justice Studies. Developed and sponsored by James Lee, Undergraduate Dean and Biology Professor, the Applied Sciences program will expand the offerings in natural and physical sciences and serve to provide new concentrations in the science arena.

Justice Studies introduced new course offerings, which will expand into concentrations in Crime and Justice, Social Justice, Legal (Pre-Law) Studies and Peace Studies. The first course offering, JUS200 Crime and Criminal Justice, has been taught this term by Prof. David Crowley who reports that the class had a very distinguished visitor, The Honorable Leslie E. Harris of Roxbury Juvenile Court. Professor Crowley stated to Judge Harris, "Your stories as Judge, as a proud Roxbury and neighborhood citizen, a father, a former Northwestern University Law School student as well as those of your 'challenging' youth days in Chicago schools and the housing project where you were brought up had all of us most attentive to say the least. Your views and philosophic beliefs of so many of the critical societal issues espoused are so close and similar to mine and those of Cambridge College."

Cambridge College needs your help in supporting less fortunate students. Your gift will go a long way in providing an academically excellent, time-efficient, cost-effective higher education. Please contribute to our year end appeal and make the dream of higher education possible for a student.

Alumni News

Dr. Kenneth L. Burgess Sr. was sworn in as an associate municipal judge during the most recent meeting of Lake City Council. BRIDGEWATER Students returning to the Williams Intermediate School on Sept. 1 will see a new assistant principal with a familiar face. English teacher Matthew Clark is replacing Derek Swenson as the Williams assistant principal. Swenson, last month, was named principal of the Bridgewater Middle School.

Jacqueline Forbes, superintendent of schools for the Bridgewater-Raynham Regional School District, made the announcement last week at the school committee meeting.

He holds a certificate in graduate studies in education leadership and a masters in elementary education from Cambridge College, and a bachelors in English from UMass-Boston. His appointment became effective on Friday.

Congratulations to Joanne Allen-Willoughby, who received a Master of Education degree in 1984 from Cambridge College, on her selection as the new METCO director in Needham, Mass.

Congratulations go out to Margaret Spencer, Master of Education degree in 1998 from Cambridge College, on being named Principal of the Pomfret School in Pomfret, Vermont.

Congratulations to Matthew Clark, who received a Master of Education degree in 2009, on his new position as Assistant Principal of the Williams Intermediate School on September 1.

Information Technology Department Tips

The following tips and guidelines can help protect you from computer viruses, hacking and identity theft.

Be wary of Suspicious email

A simple rule of thumb is that if you don't know the email sender, be very careful about opening that email. While most viruses require you to open an email attachment to be infected, there are some that can infect your system times

Be wary of email messages from social networks

As noted above, your friend's account may be infected. Use your common sense. If it doesn't sound like something they would say, be wary, don't click. If you're unsure, try to contact them through another channel and see if the email is legit.

Be careful of phishing scams

Phishing is an Internet scam where fraudulent emails and web sites are used to trick recipients into surrendering their personal or financial data for malicious purposes. Phishers often use well-trusted brand names of banks, online retailers, or credit card companies to fool recipients into believing that the email is genuine and from a legitimate source.
