Cambridge College is proud to launch its 2018 Arts and Culture Series with an exhibition featuring the work of painter and sculptor, Marjorie Kaye. Her work has been an exploration of opposites: form and color; organic and geometric; precision and chaos. Colorful and bold, her gouache paintings and sculptures are kinetic and energetic. Her work has been reviewed in many publications including the Boston Globe and ArtScope Magazine, and has been shown extensively both locally and nationally. Ms. Kaye is also the 2016 winner of the Lillian Orlowsky/William Freed Foundation Grant from the Provincetown Art Association and Museum, and is a finalist for the 2018 Massachusetts Cultural Council Grant. Ms. Kaye is the founder and former director of Galatea Fine Art in Boston, MA, an artist-run gallery featuring over 50 artists from Boston and beyond.
