The LIBRARY TEACHER program prepares library teacher candidates who share a commitment to improving student learning and providing exemplary school library programs that engage children and teachers in the development of information, media, and technological literacy skills and lifelong learning values. School libraries today provide 21st century learning environments that ensure that students and staff are effective and ethical users and creators of ideas and information. By working with classroom teachers to plan, deliver, mediate, and assess student learning, library teachers have crucial roles to play in amplifying and deepening classroom lessons with the variety of resources and specialized skills available to them.

Learning Outcomes — Our library teacher candidates are prepared to develop and promote quality school library programs. They understand and apply multiple technologies for individual and group learning, empowering students to be critical thinkers, enthusiastic readers, skillful researchers, and ethical users of information. They understand the history and current role of school libraries in education and learning. They are ready for leadership roles in teaching and information literacy, technological literacy, and media literacy. They work closely with other educators to instill a love of learning and reading, ensure equitable access to information resources, and to develop knowledge and skills needed to stimulate and integrate quality reading and inquiry skills into classrooms, labs, and libraries.

Careers — Graduates choose from a number of library and technology related careers including school librarians, media center directors, information and media literacy consultants, library technicians, library aides, media technicians, publishing assistants, educational software sales, and fee-based information services.
